

INSIGHTS + NEWS

New England Journal of Higher Education Publishes “How Much Power Does a Higher Ed Institution Have Over Including Transgender Students in Greek Life?”

BY AIVI NGUYEN • DECEMBER 19, 2016

The New England Journal of Higher Education published an article by AiVi Nguyen today examining the extent to which a college or university may compel officially-sanctioned fraternities and sororities to admit transgender students as members.

You can read “How Much Power Does a Higher Ed Institution Have Over Including Transgender Students in Greek Life?” on The New England Journal of Higher Education website.