

INSIGHTS + NEWS

David Mawhinney Quoted in Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly’s “New Subchapter V draws raves from bankruptcy bar”

FEBRUARY 4, 2021

Subchapter V, a new form of Chapter 11 bankruptcy, has been getting positive reviews. This tool has been extremely helpful for small businesses who have been hit hard by the effects of COVID-19. Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly spoke with David Mawhinney about Subchapter V.

They let a mom-and-pop business know that, if they go into Chapter 11, they are not at risk of losing business to creditors...I’m there to foster a consensual plan, work with the creditors and debtor companies, mediate disputes, and avoid protracted litigation...

Continue reading “New Subchapter V draws raves from bankruptcy bar” on Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly’s website (subscription required).