PARALEGALS

Kristin M. Pavao

Our clients include physician and dental groups, acute and specialty hospitals and integrated healthcare systems, long term care facilities, ancillary services providers, medical device manufacturers, human services agencies, community health centers, home health agencies, assisted living facilities and continuing care retirement communities and medical professional societies.

We have general counsel relationships with a number of clients and, for these clients, we provide a broad, integrated range of legal specialties at Bowditch. Many members of our industry team have been in-house counsel at integrated delivery systems, including hospitals, long-term care facilities and affiliated medical practices.

EXPERIENCE

Helping adapt to changes in the Massachusetts Medicaid program

We have been on the front lines of reforms to the Medicaid program in Massachusetts, helping healthcare clients constantly adjust and comply with fast-paced changes. For example, we are forming Accountable Care Organizations for physician practices and hospitals, which are required to provide the whole range of services, including behavioral health. When this process involves community partners, we've assisted several community partners negotiate collaborative agreements. Our client is awaiting selection and finalizing of a contract, having created an entity and made its proposal to MassHealth.

Resolving a favorable withdrawal from a professional healthcare services partnership

A member of a health care practice wasn't getting along with the other two members of their LLC, based on money and personality issues. We filed a pre-emptive suit to stop her partners from forcing her out. That allowed time for us to negotiate a settlement favorable to our client, which included withdrawing from the LLC, resolving compensation issues and coming to an agreement on non-compete terms.

Breach of Contract case knocked out on a Motion to Dismiss

We were called upon to represent one of our many healthcare clients when a former employee sued, claiming that her termination violated her contractual right to progressive discipline under the employee handbook. In a 22-page decision, the court completely agreed with our motion that the handbook did not constitute a contract with the plaintiff and, even if it did, the healthcare provider did not breach its terms, as the handbook did not guarantee that progressive discipline would be followed in every case.

Successfully closing of the sale of business assets

A medical professional was planning to retire and needed help disposing of certain business assets. We assisted the client with the sale of his business and real estate, including crafting an agreement with the new owner that allowed our client to continue to work during a transition period.

Helping finance a $12 million neighborhood health services facility

We were bond counsel on a recent Boston-area health and elder services project for a nonprofit developer, using the bonds to make a leveraged loan into the financing structure along with New Market Tax Credits. The neighborhood has now been provided with a spacious, modern facility that can accommodate the elderly residents of the neighborhood along with much-needed administrative support for the agency providing the services.

Funding the large-scale development of community health centers

We have represented a number of non-profit community health centers located in urban areas of Massachusetts in the health centers' efforts to replace or upgrade their existing facilities. Working with the clients, we put together multiple layers of funding comprising federal grants, bond funding and various tax credits, including New Market Tax Credits. We dealt with complicated real estate, regulatory and tax issues while keeping in forefront the clients' mission to serve the community.
